Crawford & Company UK appoints Field Operations Leader

London – Crawford & Company UK has made a key appointment within its General Property leadership team, with Brian Tunnah taking the reins as the head of operations for its Field Adjusting network.

Reporting to Director of General Property, Paul Bowyer, Brian's role encompasses both general property and Crawford's Agricultural, Rural Industries and Estates Losses (ARIEL) team, which was boosted by the recruitment of 19 adjusters in recent months, as well as Paul Lofkin's appointment as field team manager for the Southern region.

Brian joins from Zurich where he has spent the past 10 years working in the Claims division for Zurich Municipal. Prior to that Brian has significant experience of the loss adjusting profession having worked for both McLarens & GAB Robins.

"We're extremely pleased that Brian is heading up our field adjusting network," said Greg Gladwell, chief executive officer, UK & Ireland. "He's a well-respected figure within the property claims market and has the leadership capabilities to be able to deliver the type of service and response our property and ARIEL customers expect."

"I'm delighted to be joining Crawford & Company," said Brian. "The business is on the right footing to move forward with its UK property claims services with the structure and leadership in place."
